EMORY

Leadership

“When you choose to come to Emory College as a Scholar, you are choosing to be engaged in the world in numerous and rewarding ways. The Scholars Program will be your partner in connecting your vision with that of a great university that purposefully challenges its students to push back the horizon of their own knowledge and to participate in the creation of new knowledge. We welcome your contributions as a scholar citizen to Emory and beyond, and we look forward to accompanying and supporting you in your journey.”

Dr. Vialla Hartfield-Méndez,
Emory Scholars Director

MISSION

The Emory Scholars program provides merit-based awards to students who have established strong academic records while actively involved in their school and community.

The Emory Scholars program is dedicated to the academic enrichment of the University, embracing a challenging standard of achievement locally, nationally, and internationally. Through diverse extracurricular activities, the Scholars strengthen community-building relationships on and beyond the campus.

The Emory Scholars Program offers opportunities for research, focused conversations with faculty, summer study abroad, and internships. Scholars can explore how learning, research, community-building and service make a difference locally and globally.

LEGACY

The Emory Scholars Program builds on the legacy of intellectual enrichment and service that defines Emory College. Acknowledging our past as we look to the future, the Scholars Program encourages all scholars to learn more about their particular scholarship and its benefactors. Periodically, there are legacy events that highlight a particular scholarship or aspect of the Scholars Program that we want to continue and build upon in the future.

TEAM WORK

Teams of scholars do a large portion of the work that makes Scholars' programs and activities successful. Scholar teams work closely with the Scholar-led Advisory Board, which meets monthly, reporting and planning in order to fulfill our mission's goals. The board and teams are open to all scholars. Team work is a great way to contribute and to learn leadership skills. All scholars are encouraged to get involved.

exploration

Scholars are active participants in the Emory and Atlanta community. Their involvements, include but are not limited to, the following:

- College Honors Program participants
- Members of honor and social societies – Phi Beta Kappa, Greek sororities and fraternities, Phi Eta Sigma, etc.
- Research assistants in Emory labs
- Editors and contributing writers for The Emory Wheel
- Volunteer Emory volunteers
- Athletes-tennis, soccer, swimming, etc.
- Peer educators and tutors for Emory classes
- And many, many more...

FINALISTS WEEKEND

During Scholar Finalists Weekend each March, outstanding candidates for admission to Emory College are interviewed for several merit-based awards. Prospective students experience Emory's campus and the Emory Scholars Program. Current scholars in conjunction with the Scholars and Admission staffs have designed the weekend to convey the Emory scholar experience. Finalists Weekend is our invitation to stellar students to become a part of our Emory Scholars community.
